

MANAGEMENT

Program Description

The Management curriculum affords students the opportunity to obtain rewarding employment in the business field. Curriculum is available in an online format as well as on campus.

The program certificate is designed as a stand-alone certificate for those interested in gaining or enhancing basic management skills or may be earned as students work on earning the associate in applied science degree.

Preparation

Students with a high school background in economics, accounting, and marketing classes are very well prepared. Many students are successful without having taken this concentration of classes.

Program Requirements

Students who complete the required coursework will earn one, or both of the following:

- Management Program Certificate
- Management Associate in Applied Science degree

Career Opportunities

Possible career opportunities include work involving advertising account managers, sales representatives, and independent entrepreneurs, or work in real estate sales, management trainee programs, insurance, banking and purchasing.
